“Sunburn” by Laura Lippman is a book about secrets, lies, and so many twists and turns that at times it can be hard to keep up. She introduces the characters Polly and Adam, two people who meet, or so we think, in a small town called Belleville, Delaware. At the beginning, readers will question whether these two people are truly strangers or if they were destined to meet. As the story continues, we realize that not only does Polly have secrets, but she may not be the person that she claims to be. Is she someone else entirely?

Lippman, with many of her novels, grabs your attention from the first page and doesn’t let go until the ending - and “Sunburn” is no exception. Polly and Adam both are playing a dangerous game and hiding secrets from each other that can lead to death. Is Polly the murderer that everyone thinks she is, or is she just a woman that has come across bad luck? Is Adam really who he says he is, or is he someone else entirely? Other characters pop up throughout the story that add to the suspense of the novel and bring even more of the secrets that will be reveled in Belleville. Part love story and part suspense thriller, no reader could go wrong with Laura Lippman’s “Sunburn!”
